CS 101 Intro to Computer Science 3 credits
An introduction to computer science concepts and the role of computers in society. Topics include the history of computing, computer hardware, operating systems, the Internet, database management, an overview of programming languages and logic, careers in computer technology, and the ethics of computing. This course is designed for Computer Science majors, and will emphasize principles and underlying computer technology concepts. (F, W, S, SU)
Prerequisite: None